

QUARTERLY MARKET REVIEW

The third quarter of 2017 saw the U.S. large-cap equity markets at record low volatility, despite rising tensions between the U.S. and North Korea. Equity markets drifted higher, with the S&P 500 and Nasdaq both reaching new highs on September 29th. After oil prices sunk during the first half of the year, prices rose in the third quarter. Yields experienced little change, with the Fed holding off on the possibility of another hike until later in the year. Political turmoil, devastating storms, and interest rate news have done little to sway positive investor sentiment, as investors instead focus on the prospects of lower corporate taxes.

In the U.S. it was a strong quarter for equities, as energy and technology led the way over real estate and consumer discretionary sectors.

Globally, Brazil and China were the best performing countries.

In the U.S. for the third quarter of 2017, the small-mid cap Russell 2500 Growth[®] gained 5.78% while the Large-Cap Russell 1000 Growth[®] gained 5.90% and the Russell 3000 Growth[®] gained 5.93%. In the international equity markets, the MSCI ACWI ND[®] gained 5.18%.

STRATEGY REVIEW

For the third quarter of 2017, the All-Cap Growth Fund outperformed its benchmark, the Russell 3000 Growth Index. Performance was largely driven by our stock exposure, on a sector level, information technology was a contributor and industrials was a detractor.

Contributors

PayPal Holdings, a key supply chain participant in the electronic payments industry, was a contributor to performance during the quarter. The company reported 2Q earnings showing good business momentum, allowing management to meaningfully increase guidance for the full year. For the quarter, the company reported some key metrics including 26% total payment volume growth and active user growth of 6.5mm, up 12% year-over-year (YOY). Transactions per user were up 10% YOY, in part, driven by Venmo users but complimented by the core PayPal user base. Venmo growth continues to be strong, with $8 billion in transaction volume during the quarter, up 103% YOY. Additionally, PayPal's strategic partnership with Visa is now extended globally and the company has also signed deals with both Bank of America and Chase, allowing PayPal to capture additional spend. PayPal's core payment product continues to show significant growth by expanding its reach into physical merchants, via Venmo and PayPal, and by increasing infrastructure offerings to other payment companies, via Braintree.

LendingTree Inc., an online lending exchange, was a contributor to performance during the quarter. The company reported impressive second quarter results with revenue beating expectations in every category. For the quarter, mortgage products were up 26% YOY and personal loans were up 23% YOY, leading management to raise guidance for the full year. There continues to be an acceleration in MyLendingTree customer signup, resulting in nearly ~6mm users and a subsequent revenue growth rate of over 60% YOY. Additionally, the recent CompareCards acquisition is performing better than expected. We believe LendingTree will not only continue to be a leader in online loan referrals, but will also strengthen its business model by successfully diversifying its product offerings.

Take-Two Interactive Software Inc., a publisher and distributor of video games, was a contributor to performance in the third quarter. In August, the company reported strong Q2 earnings with net revenue growth of 34% YOY and management raised guidance for the full-year. Digital online gaming grew an impressive 55.9% YOY. The Grand Theft Auto franchise continues to generate cash and the market is eagerly anticipating the new Red Dead game release in 2018. Take-Two's business is transitioning towards a greater mix-shift of digital games which we think should drive higher margins over time. The company is also uniquely advantaged given that they control their own content and are therefore, not subject to high licensing fees. We believe the street and market are underestimating and/or incorrectly modeling (i) unit potential of Red Dead and Grand Theft Auto VI, (ii) monetization potential and stickiness of online recurring consumer spend, and (iii) operating leverage as the company scales revenues and the digital mix grows as a percentage of overall revenue.

Detractors

Allergan Plc., the global pharmaceutical company, was a detractor from performance in the quarter. The company reported mixed 2Q earnings, with a top line beat driven by U.S. specialized therapeutics and international sales. While Botox continues to perform well, analysts seem concerned about the impending October Inter Partes Review process which will challenge the patent for Restasis, a well-performing dry eye drug. By considering the company in its entirety, we still believe Allergan's core legacy business has solid growth potential, driven by the ophthalmology franchise (with or without Restasis patent) as well as by the broader use of Botox in both cosmetic and in other medical indications.

j2 Global Inc., a business cloud and digital media company, was a detractor from performance in the third quarter. The company reported positive earnings, with revenue up 29% year-over year (YOY); however the positive results may have been dampened by the announcement of the divestment of Cambridge BioMarketing, a non-core-asset, which is expected to decrease full-year revenue by $15mm. Additionally, the company refinanced its debt and expects a headwind to non-generally accepted accounting principles earnings per share. Despite the near-term pressure on the stock, we are invested in j2 because we believe the company will add incremental value for shareholders by making small, strategic and financially sound acquisitions.

STRATEGY REVIEW CONTINUED

Shutterstock Inc., a stock photography and editing tools provider, was a detractor from performance during the third quarter. The company reported disappointing earnings and guided down for the full year, revising EBITDA guidance down by 20%. Revenue grew 9% YOY but was down 14% from last quarter. The company cited a mix shift towards lower average selling price packages in the core ecommerce business and the ongoing technology re-platforming transition costs. Despite near-term margin pressure, Shutterstock provides an alternative to the historically expensive and complex content providers with their simple and affordable model which we believe positions them well to gain considerable market share over the long-term.

MARKET OUTLOOK

Despite positive absolute returns in the equity market over the past several years, Jackson Square Partners believes that a lack of meaningful volatility combined with tepid investor confidence in the global macroeconomic outlook demonstrates that there are more than just fundamental factors affecting stock prices. Many investors have struggled with accurately predicting the pace of global economic recovery and assessing external factors that threaten economic fundamentals, such as central bank actions and fiscal policy debates across the globe. Nonetheless, absolute equity market returns have been strong since the market bottom in 2009, perhaps driven by asset allocation decision-makers seeking the potential for high returns in a low interest rate environment. The result has been more of an investor focus on equities as an asset class as opposed to a focus on company-specific fundamentals.

More recently, President Trump's surprising victory last November and the corresponding initial market reaction reflected growing investor optimism, at least in the short-term, that potential policy shifts could stimulate economic growth. While there are varying degrees of uncertainty to President Trump's unconventional style as a head of state and current questions and investigations surrounding his administration may hamper significant policy change in the short term, we are mindful of the potential macroeconomic implications of Trump's policy shifts, e.g. economic growth, higher corporate and personal incomes from lower tax rates, etc. We believe it is too early to determine the long term direction or magnitude of such outcomes but we will closely monitor President Trump's tenure with a keen eye on the execution of significant policy shifts.

Nonetheless, regardless of policy outcomes, we remain consistent in our long-term investment philosophy:

We want to own what we view as strong secular-growth companies with solid business models and competitive positions that we believe can grow market share and have the potential to deliver shareholder value in a variety of market environments.

Mutual Fund investing involves risk. Principal loss is possible. Small- and Mid-capitalization companies tend to have limited liquidity and greater price volatility than large-capitalization companies. The Fund invests in foreign securities which involve greater volatility and political, economic and currency risks and differences in accounting methods. These risks are greater in emerging and frontier markets. Investments in Real Estate Investment Trusts (REITs) involve additional risks such as declines in the value of real estate and increased susceptibility to adverse economic or regulatory developments.
